ECONOMICS 230A PUBLIC SECTOR MICROECONOMICS

This is the first of two courses in the Public Economics sequence. It will begin by covering core material on externalities, tax efficiency, and tax incidence, and then move on to consider international taxation, capital income taxation more broadly and its effects on the behavior of households and firms, social insurance, and local public finance. Economics 230B, the second semester in the sequence, will consider more fully the general optimal income tax problem, the institutional characteristics of important taxes, tax evasion, and wealth distribution.

All course materials will be provided through bCourses.
